Assembly & Boarding; and More Info about 2nd Class

Assembly

Upright signboards, located either inside the terminal or outside in the plaza area, indicate gathering areas. If traveling in an upper class (Special, Special First, First, and Special Second), please gather behind the upper-class signboard. If traveling second class, gather behind the 2nd-class signboard. On busy days there will be more than one second-class signboard set up; gather behind the signboard whose number matches the number written on your ticket.

Boarding

Boarding begins at 9:30 AM on regular days, and at 9:00 AM on busy days. Your passenger list will be collected as you board.

Second-Class Travelers...

Second-class passengers share large carpeted rooms. Each passenger space is supplied with a blanket, mattress, and pillow. When boarding the ship you will receive a card indicating the number of the space you are to occupy. If you are traveling with others, please be sure to board together. Passenger spaces cannot be reserved; there are no special assignments for "aisle" or "wall" seats. Note that on crowded trips bedding may be spaced closer than shown in the picture.

Women-Only Room

On most days one or more of our second-class rooms are reserved for women only. Accommodation is available on a first-come first-serve basis. If you wish to use this room, please indicate your wish to the attendant as you board. The room is furnished identically to other second-class rooms. Please try to come early; once all spaces have been assigned no further passengers will be accepted. Please note that women-only accommodation may not be available at all on busy days or for other exceptional reasons. If interested, please ask for availability when boarding.

Family Room

On most days one or more of our second-class rooms are reserved for families that include at least one child up to five years of age. Accommodation is available on a first-come first-serve basis. If you wish to use this room, please indicate your wish to the attendant as you board. The room is furnished identically to other second-class rooms. Please try to come early; once all spaces have been assigned no further passengers will be accepted. Please note that family accommodation may not be available at all on busy days or for other exceptional reasons. If interested, please ask for availability when boarding.
